

Dear Student,

Welcome to TCM Review Seminars Canada 2018 course for the written exam. Thanks for choosing us as your Pan-Canadian prep course.

We are very excited to start our journey together. The Pan-Canadian Exam can be a challenging exam. You will need to bring your dedication and determination, focus and concentration, stamina and perseverance. We are here with you as your support team as you prepare for your final exam before licensure.

Class will start on May 14. The recording of the class will be available on May 14 by 2PM. In this package, you have received:

1. TCM Review Seminar's Coursebook
2. TCM Review Course Schedule
3. Study Schedule

The first thing we'd like you to do is sign the student contract and work through the first assessment tests at the front of your TCM Review Seminars course book. While you wait for class to start, look over the course schedule and your study schedule. Familiarize yourself with the expectations of the course. If you are ready to start studying right away then get a jump start on reading the textbooks. You'll do better in the course and on the test if you have read Maciocia Foundations of Chinese Medicine at the very minimum. Biomedicine is always a tricky topic and it's importance on the Pan-Canadian Exam ebbs and flows. Since you won't know what questions will be on the Pan-Canadian Exam, you need to be prepared 100% for Biomedicine. If this is your weak spot then start working on it now. Reading through Bates, Merck and Basis and Clinical Pharmacology is strongly recommended.

During the course, questions will arise. I want you to know that we are all here for you from the day you registered for the course until you get your Pan-Canadian Exam results. Feel free to email as needed. We want those questions answered before the exam.

Last of all, we are a team, your classmates, you teachers and YOU! This is a time to work together, pool your resources and each one teach one. You are stronger supporting and being supported by your peers whether emotionally, academically or both. Find your partners and schedule regular check-ins. Together, we will prepare you to pass the exam.

Looking forward to another successful course.

All the Best,

Bina Jangda
